This trip explores Devon and Cornwall and includes the world famous 'Eden Project'

The Eden Project has been created to tell the fascinating story of man's relationship with over 1 million plants. Eden is a gateway into the world of plants and people—a meeting place for all to discover our dependence on plants and how they are managed for our mutual survival. Eden's Rainforest Biome takes you on a fascinating journey of discovery into the humid tropical regions of the world, exhibiting the plants growing there and celebrating the value of these plants to mankind. The Rainforest Biome is an impressive piece of engineering. It contains 1,129 plants from the main rainforest regions: South-East Asia, West Africa, South America and the tropical oceanic islands, particularly the Seychelles and St Helena. Eden's Mediterranean Biome takes you on a relaxed camper-van road trip of a tour through the Mediterranean-type climates (also known as warm temperate regions) of the world. This colourful, sensory journey begins in the Mediterranean Basin, takes you across the equator to South Africa and on to experience the grandeur of the Californian landscape. There are also wonderful outdoor gardens to visit on this fantastic day out.

We will also visit Tintagel and the beautiful town of Padstow, once the ecclesiastical capital of Cornwall, built on a hillside overlooking the Camel Estuary.

A full day excursion to Torquay in Devon, situated at the heart of the English Riviera is included. Torquay itself is a stylish resort with the elegance of time gone by.
